

Valentines Messages for your Favorite Fake Bake-Friend

You' the icing on my Foam cupcake!

You're the glaze to my fake donut—shiny and sweet!

Our love sticks tighter than Mod Podge and glitter.

Our love shines brighter than glow-in-the-dark paint

You seal the cracks in my heart—just like caulk!

You're the glaze that makes my faux donuts shine

Donut know what I'd do without you!

Our love is like a glitter storm—it sticks everywhere and refuses to fade!

Our love is forever—just like our fake bake pies

You're my glitter—impossible to ignore and absolutely magical.

You whisk away all my worries like mixing paint into spackling

You make my heart spin like a lazy Susan full of craft supplies

Are you food coloring? Because you brighten my world!

You're my favorite texture—soft like foam clay and full of dimension.

Your love is thicker than caulk in my favorite piping bag

You make me happier than finding the perfect shade of craft paint

You're the glue gun to my glitter—messy but perfect together

Our love is more satisfying than peeling dried glue off my fingers

Are you a silicone mold? Because you shape my heart perfectly.

You're the sprinkle mix that adds fun and color to my world

You're the caulk to my cracks—holding me together every day.

You're my sealing spray—locking in all the best parts of life.

You make life sweeter than faux frosting on a cake dummy

Are you a rolling pin? Because you smooth out all the bumps in life

Our love shines brighter than a gloss Mod Podge finish

Our love is firmer than a foam clay project left overnight to dry

Our love is stronger than gorilla glue

You're the caulk that keeps my world from falling apart.

You're my Valentine, no sealant required

You're my double-sided tape—sticking with me through thick and thin

I knead you more than foam clay needs conditioning

Are you a crafting heat gun? Because you melt away all my worries

Are you glitter? Because you make everything better!

You're the cherry on my fake sundae !.
